Wasatch Baseball Drops Two

The Wasatch High School baseball team lost its lead in Region 9 competition by dropping two games to Emery on the local field on Wednesday, April 11.

For the first time all season the Wasatch offense sputtered when it ran up against the powerful pitching of Cory Mortenson. The Wasps' sophomore pitcher Eddie Burgener held Emery scoreless thru 4 innings and the Wasps held a 2-0 lead at this point. Then in the top of the fifth a crucial mis-call on an obvious double play cost the Wasps 3 runs. From that point on the momentum switched to Emery who went on to win 8-0. Chris Anderson picked up the Wasps' only base hit.

In the second game Emery again started the tireless Mortenson on the mound. The Wasp bats began to come alive but several of the hardest hit balls were snared by Emery fielders.

Brett Carlson started the game for Wasatch but only lasted one inning as he was plagued by control problems. Fellow sophomore Wade Farrer then finished the game for the Wasps. First baseman Alan MacNaughtan paced the Wasps with 2 hits; while Cary and Cory Holmes each had solo hits. The final score was again 8-0 in favor of Emery.

The Wasps' region record is now 4 wins and 2 losses.

Wasatch played Altamont Tuesday, April 17 and will meet Union in Heber on Monday, April 23 at 1:00 p.m.
